

Biography of Racquel Tomacruz

Racquel Tomacruz was raised in Manila in Asia, and enjoyed a multi-cultural upbringing. She is excited to share with others the goodness and love of the Lord, to serve the churches of Plumville and Atwood. She desires to be a “servant-leader” working alongside the church elders and leaders, to spread the Lord’s care and grace within the churches, and beyond to the outer community.

Racquel earned her Masters of Divinity degree from Regent in Vancouver, Canada. Her professors included some biblical scholars as: J. I. Packer (Professor of Theology and author of numerous books); Gordon Fee, (author of a good commentary on First Corinthians among other books); Eugene Peterson (who wrote “The Message”); and Bruce Waltke (Professor of Old Testament). Prior to earning her seminary degree, she also has a Bachelor’s degree in Business Management from De La Salle University in Manila. She aims to use the management principles learned, that are practical to a church setting.

She is an avid reader, likes sports of swimming and tennis; and also enjoys hobbies like playing board games with friends. She also likes having time out together with acquaintances, sharing a meal and time of fellowship, sharing some laughter.
